In Raito, one of the most authentic villages on the Amalfi Coast, cooking is still a family affair, handed down from generation to generation. This experience invites you into the kitchen to learn recipes that tell the story of the area, sharing the pleasure of preparing and enjoying them together in an authentic, convivial atmosphere.

After a short visit to the estate's winery and vineyards, you will step into the chef's kitchen to prepare some of the great classics of Campanian tradition, discovering the techniques, ingredients and little secrets that make home cooking so special. The menu can be tailored to the preferences of the group and, during the workshop, you will taste the estate's wines paired with local appetizers. The experience ends with a convivial lunch, where you will share the dishes you have prepared together, accompanied by the winery's wines.

An experience designed for those who want to get to know the Amalfi Coast through its cuisine, enjoying the pleasure of the table, hospitality and local traditions.
